

experimental workshops for women

by artist Elizabeth Ross

To get out of our daily work for a while and immerse in one of the other possible worlds, enriches our experience and our growing process.

Directed to groups of women, this workshop invites to take a journey to what is so elemental and ours: the earth. To contact more creative, expressive and self knowledge possibilities.

this workshop offers

- the pleasure our own hands give when creating –with earth and water– objects that fire will make permanent as stone, as the first Neolithic women did.
- basic ceramic technics to use in our own work along they will allow us to value this activity in all levels.
- experimentation and play, a different energy and vision to face our daily and professional life, all from a sacred, feminist perspective.

The curricular design will be made according the groups profile

12 hours (in 3 days) plus a whole day for building a kiln and the firing, or 2 weekends

Materials required

Groups: from 5 to 10 people (no children)

Course cost 1500 US$ plus travel expenses